Engineering measure also OK'd

Sewer project grant accepted by Council

An ordinance formally accepting a federal grant to finance the first and second phases of the city's proposed multi-million dollar sewer project was approved by members of Washington C.H. City Council Wednesday night.

The controversial ordinance, which was placed on its first reading by City Council Oct. 8, permits the city to enter into a contract to formally accept a $657,375 grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for the improvement project.

The federal grant will cover engineering work completed during the first and second phases of the $26.6 million, which represents the largest single investment ever entered into in Washington C.H.'s history.

The legislation to accept the federal grant was approved by a 5-2 vote, with City Council members John E. Rhoads and Billie Wilson objecting. Both city legislators have opposed the ordinance through its three readings.

IN ANOTHER related matter, City Council members approved an ordinance by a 5-2 vote authorizing the city manager to enter into an amended agreement with C.F. Bird and R.J. Bull, Ltd., the city's consulting engineering firm, for the preparation of detailed plans for the second phase of the three-step project.

The Worthington-based engineering firm will receive $616,400 in fees for work completed during the second phase.

The amended agreement was required to establish a fixed fee for services rendered by the firm rather than on a percentage basis, as in the previous contract.

The ordinance to enter into a contract with the engineering firm had attracted a shower of controversy since being introduced, and Rhoads sponsored a motion at City Council's Oct. 8 meeting that the firm be fired immediately.

Both Rhoads and Wilson opposed the ordinance since its introduction, and cast negative votes on the measure Wednesday night.

Two Washington C.H. residents voiced opposition to the sewer project-related measures during Wednesday's meeting.

Phil Tatman, 437 Warren Ave., proposed that City Council members delay action on the sewer system improvement legislation until spring in order that the issue be placed on the May primary election ballot. Charles Manker, 723 S. North St., questioned the number of engineering firms City Council members considered before entering into an agreement with Bird and Bull, Ltd. He also raised questions on the proposed sewer rate schedule.

City Council chairman Ralph L. Cook said Wednesday a committee chaired by former City Council member Hugh S. (Bud) Patton will report on its study of the proposed assessment schedule at Council's next regular meeting.

Community Improvement Corporation, which developed the city's industrial park, is interested in the tract of land for future expansion of the industrial park.

No objections regarding the proposed annexation were voiced during a public hearing held by the Fayette County Board of Commissioners last month.

IN OTHER matters, Council members agreed that a housing facility for senior citizens in Fayette County is vitally needed.

The agreement came after a presentation by Roger Peercy, a planner for the Fayette County Community Action Commission.

Peercy said the Community Action Commission proposes to purchase the former Jackson Glove Manufacturing Co., building, 220 E. Temple St., and renovate the facility for use as an apartment complex for elderly persons. The Community Action Commission has submitted an application to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to finance the proposal.

City Council also agreed to meet with members of the city planning commission to review four proposals for low-income housing projects here. One of the four projects, two located in the Storybrook Addition and two situated in the vicinity of Gregg and Lewis streets, will be funded by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Three of the projects propose apartment complexes and the other is for a housing development.

City Council okays 23-acre annexation

The annexation of more than 20 acres of land which adjoins to the city's industrial park was unanimously approved by Washington C.H. City Council members Wednesday night.

The 23.147-acre tract of land is situated adjacent to the Landmark feed plant, just off Old Chillicothe Road and is bounded by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The property, which is owned by the board of trustees of the West Ohio Conference of the United Methodist Church, is vacant and no buildings are involved in the annexation.

General fund critically ill, report discloses

City manager paints gloomy financial picture

A dismal outlook regarding the city's financial condition was presented by Washington C.H. City Manager George H. Shapter during Wednesday night's City Council meeting.

The most critically ill of the city's financial situation is the general fund, according to anticipated income and expenditure figures compiled by city officials.

Shapter said it is possible that the city's general fund operation will reflect a deficit of nearly $94,000 by Dec. 31.

The city manager pointed out that the figure is based on anticipated receipts through the end of the year as compared with estimated expenditures, but that the amounts could fluctuate some.

A comprehensive 26-page report on the general fund situation plus a report on the overall city budget condition will be presented to City Council members for study in the near future. After the report is received by Council, it will be open for public inspection, Shapter said.

Shapter informed City Council members that general fund revenue will be approximately $758,000 by the end of the year. The figure includes nearly $240,000 which the city expects to collect from the one per cent income tax. General fund expenditures are estimated at $857,000. The city had a balance of $3,900, which leaves a deficit of about $94,000.

"Anybody's arithmetic tells you we're broke," Shapter warned.

Washington C.H. voters turned down three proposed tax levies, totaling 2.3 mills, and repealed the city's one per cent income tax in the November general election.

In reviewing the city's financial situation, Shapter said he found no examples of extravagance or waste of funds, but said the city is not earning interest on inactive funds and that tighter fiscal control is needed in that area.

"One essential tool to be developed is a short and long range capital improvement program," Shapter suggested. "Then citizens in the community will know what process will be followed and we'll be able to get some public support."

Shapter said that during his first six weeks in office he has been attempting to get "city government back on course" but has been faced with a number of housekeeping chores which are gradually being accomplished.

A lack of office space in the City Office Building has surfaced as a severe operational problem, he said. He listed more office space as an obvious future need for the city along with improved traffic signals in the downtown area, better curbs, sidewalks, gutters and streets, update fire equipment, street signs and park development.

and 20 homemade floats, four marching bands, a number of youth groups and a variety of other marching units.

There will be two awards presented in the commercial float category and two for the local floats. The float judges will be Mrs. Mark Dove, Ora Burdge and Howard Miller.

Leading the line of march will be vehicles from the Washington C.H. Police Department, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department and the Ohio Highway Patrol, along with a color guard provided by the Burnett-Ducey Post No. 4964, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The parade's grand marshal will be Morgan B. Pennington, founder and owner of Pennington Bread. Bands will be participating from Washington Senior and Miami Trace high schools. The junior high bands from both school districts will also be participating.

Parade royalty will include Little Miss Snow Princess, Jodi Le Elliott; Miss Snow Princess, Dawn Ware, and Miss Snow Queen, Vicky Patton. Other royalty in the parade will be Washington Senior High School homecoming queen Loree Johnson and her court of Cheryl White, Pam Johnson, Joni Johnson and Juli Smith; Miami Trace High

Jaycees schedule annual Yule decorating contest

Public interest has again prompted the Washington C.H. Jaycees to sponsor the annual home decorating contest during this Christmas holiday season.

Judging for this year's contest will be held from 6 until 11:30 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 18, according to Mike Cruea, project chairman. This gives Washington C.H. area residents three weeks to decorate their homes in preparation for the contest.

The Jaycees will award plaques to the winners of each category of judging. After selecting the grand champion residence, the best homemade decorations, the most original and the best religious theme will be chosen, Cruea said. The grand champion home will encompass all three of the features, he noted.

Due to a continuing concern for the conservation of the nation's energy, the category for the best lighting effect has been eliminated again this year.

Five teams of Jaycees will begin the judging at 6 p.m. on Dec. 18. Four teams will cover Washington C.H. and the fifth will canvass the rural area. One team will be assigned to each ward in the city and will cover it street-by-street. Due to the large area involved in the rural sections of Fayette County, Cruea said it will be impossible to judge all the homes in the rural areas. For this reason, persons residing outside the city corporation limits are requested to notify Cruea (335-0836) that they wish their homes to be considered in the contest.

After the initial judging of the city and rural areas has been completed, the Jaycees will return to their clubhouse to evaluate the selections made by each team. Outstanding selections will be rejudged to determine the winners in each category.

Federal loan setup faced by solons

New York City aid plan announced by President

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Congress returns from its Thanksgiving recess, the top item on its agenda will be President Ford's proposal that the United States loan New York City the money it needs to avoid default.

Ford, backing away from his hard-line stand against offering any federal assistance to the city, said at his Wednesday night news conference that he would submit legislation to Congress which would provide up to $2.3 billion in federal loans to the city. The year-to-year loan authority would expire in 1978.

Lawmakers indicated Ford's plan would receive immediate consideration when Congress reconvenes Monday and there were numerous predictions it would win quick approval. But some cited continued opposition to any aid to the city, mostly from Republicans and conservative Democrats.

Ford said self-help steps taken by New York City and the state to increase revenues and cut expenses led him to reconsider his stand. He said the city "has bailed itself out."

Ford's proposal would require the city to pay back borrowed money each year with interest. The interest rate would be at least the going rate at which the federal government itself borrows money — now about 7 per cent — but the treasury secretary could be empowered to assess an additional 1 per cent interest on top of that.

Under Ford's plan, the federal government will have first call on all city funds to assure repayment of the loans.

Both city and state officials said New Yorkers still face "painful burdens" before fiscal problems can be resolved.

Mayor Abraham D. Beame said New York's problems are far from being resolved, but he called Ford's proposal "a crucial turning point" in the city's year-long fiscal crisis.

Gov. Hugh Carey said that "talk of collapse and chaos should now disappear. In its place, we shall talk of

Annual parade to greet Christmas season here

Santa Claus coming to town at 2 p.m. Sunday

The 1975 Christmas shopping season in Washington C.H. will officially be opened at 2 p.m. Sunday when the annual community Christmas parade moves through the downtown business district.

The parade theme is a "A Colonial Christmas."

Parade committee chairman Chuck Winkle said the parade route has been altered from last year to enable easier handling of the event.

The 56-unit parade, involving approximately 1,000 persons, will step off promptly at 2 p.m. from the staging area in the vicinity of Columbus Avenue and Elm Street. The parade will travel west on Columbus Avenue to Court Street, through the central business district, turn left onto Circle Avenue and disband in the vicinity of Gardner Park Stadium.

Last year, the parade formed at the Fayette County Fairgrounds and moved east through the downtown area to Washington Senior High School.

Although Sunday's parade will not begin until 2 p.m., the floats are required to be in their line of march by 9:30 a.m. in order to be judged. Other marching units are being asked to form by 12:30 p.m.

Included in the 56-unit procession will be about 20 commercial floats

High court backs judge

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Supreme Court let stand today a lower court decision that said, in effect, that three generations of the same family living in one home violated an ordinance limiting one dwelling to a single family.

In the cast at hand, Inez Moore of East Cleveland appealed after being cited by housing inspectors because her sons, Dale and John, were living in her home along with their sons, Dale Jr. and John Jr. The city contended that the occupants of the home comprised more than one family under its ordinance.

Mrs. Moore was convicted in East Cleveland Municipal Court, sentenced to five days in jail, and ordered to pay a $25 fine.

Ford to meet with Chinese

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teng Hsiao-Fing, who may succeed Mao Tse-Tung, reportedly is strengthening his power base; and U.S. intelligence officials say President Ford should pay close attention to him during his trip next week to the People's Republic of China.

Teng is considered by many analysts to be the most powerful leader in China, second only to Mao.

Now vice premier and nominally subordinate to ailing Premier Chou en-Lai, Teng has been slowly building his power base.

For example, U.S. intelligence sources say Teng recently was instrumental in moving Chen Hsi-Lien, the Peking region military commander and a Teng ally, into position to become defense minister.

Also, Teng has been shifting certain provincial leaders around to prevent them from establishing their own power bases, analysts say.

The current reading by U.S. intelligence is that Teng at the least will become the top figure in a collective leadership after the deaths of Mao, 82, and Chou, 77.

However, the analysts believe Teng is likely to emerge as dominant if he is able to consolidate his power base enough to repel challenges, principally from the radical wing of the Chinese Communist party.

Based on his past performance, it appears that Teng would continue China's estrangement from the Soviet Union.

In the early years of the Chinese-Soviet split, Teng publicly accused the Soviet Union of weakening the international communist movement. One U.S. intelligence appraisal of Teng said that by the early 1960s he "had earned the reputation of being a man able to stand up to and infuriate the Soviet leaders."

Soviet split, Teng publicly accused the Soviet Union of weakening the international communist movement. One U.S. intelligence appraisal of Teng said that by the early 1960s he "had earned the reputation of being a man able to stand up to and infuriate the Soviet leaders."

Teng was in disgrace for about six years after falling victim to the "cultural revolution" engineered by the radicals. But he was restored to power near the top in 1973.

Last year, Teng became the first high-level Chinese Communist official to visit the United States when he led his country's delegation to a special United Nations General Assembly meeting on world resources.

At 71, Teng is hardly a "young Turk." He was one of the early activists in the Chinese Communist party about 50 years ago and joined Mao in the "long march" of the 1930s.

Rains help cool Los Angeles fires

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The rains were the biggest fire fighter we had," said one weary fireman as two brush fires that had raged in the hills north and east of Los Angeles were contained.

In five days, the fires charred 100 square miles of land, caused $17.5 million damage, drove 5,600 persons from their homes and created the danger of flooding from winter storms.

Mop-up operations continued today, but all but a few of the thousands of fire fighters who struggled with the blazes in the San Gabriel Mountains had gone home.

Officials declared the fires contained Thursday night after a cold front swept a quarter inch of rain into the area.

"We had planned three hard days for mop-up operations, but the rains did it in 20 minutes," said Dave Waite, a U.S. Forest Service official. "The rains were the biggest fire fighter we had."

The fires, one in the northern foothills above Los Angeles, the other 20 miles to the east above the San Gabriel Valley, burned mostly through timber lands and brush-covered hills. They blanketed the city with smoke by day, and tinted the night sky with an orange glow.

Watershed damage to the now-denuded hillsides was pegged at about $17 million. The 40-odd structures damaged or destroyed by the fires added another $500,000 to the total bill.

Forest Service costs in fighting the blazes were estimated at more than $1.5 million. Costs incurred by the Los Angeles city and county fire departments have not been determined.

With the fires contained, officials looked to the approaching winter storm season. Heavy rains frequently have brought floods and mudslides after brush fires in Southern California.

The Forest Service said seeding operations would begin Sunday, when eight pounds of fastgerminating rye grass would be sowed over each acre. But there were fears the grass would not grow fast enough.

"It's a matter of timing," said Bob Reese, watershed and resources management officer in the Angeles National Forest. "It depends on how the rains come, whether we get gentle rain so the seeds can germinate. If we have a gully washer we're going to have problems."

Grand Ole Opry notes 50th year

the past hour we have been listening to music taken largely from grand opera, but now we will present the Grand Ole Opry."

The Grand Old Opry was born. Over the years, on radio and television, its hundreds of thousands of followers made Nashville the country music capital of the world.

In the early years, the Opry featured such performers as harmonica player Deford Bailey, one of the first black country music performers, and Uncle Dave Macon, who joined the Opry in 1926 and remained a headliner for years.

In July, 1939, the Opry outgrew its studio facilities and moved to the War Memorial Auditorium, and four years later it moved to Nashville's Ryman Auditorium.

Although the floor was covered with sawdust and the splintery pews were crude, there soon were lines reaching several blocks before each performance as people queued up for the 3,000 seats inside.

In the late 1930's, the Opry began adding singers, such as Roy Acuff, now generally regarded as the "King of Country Music."

A short time later, an instrumentalist in the band of Pee Wee King and his Golden West Cowboys stepped forward to sing. That was the start for Eddy Arnold and his Tennessee Plowboys. He was followed by Red Foley, Ernest Tubbs, Cowboy Copas and Hank Williams.

In 1971, construction began on a $15-million facility to house the Opry, along with a $28-million family entertainment center, Opryland U.S.A.

The Opry's first performance in its new home was on March 16, 1974. Richard Nixon, then President, was on hand, trying unsuccessfully to play with the yo-yo that Acuff uses as a stage prop.

Despite the air conditioning and cushioned seats, there are reminders of the old days at Ryman Auditorium. The performers still stand before a red barn backdrop, and inserted in the center of the new stage is a six-foot disc of oak flooring cut from the old state Ryman Auditorium.

the work of rebuilding and restoring confidence in New York City."

Even with federal aid, New York officials said the city still must end a $725 million operating deficit in its budget by June 30, 1978. Officials indicated this will mean further employee layoffs and cutbacks in city services.

New York state also will have to balance its budget. Carey says the state will end up $700 million in the red this year. State Republicans say the deficit will be $300 million.

City residents, already among the nation's most heavily taxed citizens, will have to pay as much as 25 per cent higher income taxes under proposals designed to wipe out deficits. Additional taxes will be levied on many items New Yorkers buy and even more taxes may be ahead as the state tries to balance its books.

Christmas parade

Miniature horses plus Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cub Scouts, Brownie Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, antique cars, baton twirling groups, drill teams and a variety of other marching groups will also be included in the annual procession.

Local clowns will be distributing balloons and candy along the parade route.

Santa Claus, the most popular of all the features with the children, will be riding atop one of the last floats in the line of march. The Washington C.H. Fire Department will have the last vehicle in the procession.

The parade will be announced over a public address system by Miss Marian Osborn from a reviewing stand located in front of the Courthouse. Also on the reviewing stand will be news media representatives and City and County officials.

Immediately following the parade, Santa Claus will be on the Courthouse lawn to distribute about 2,000 free treats to the youngsters.

Parking on Court Street will be prohibited from 10 a.m. Sunday until the parade's conclusion.

Members of the Washington C.H. Police Department and deputies from the Fayette County Sheriff's Department will not only escort the parade through the city, but will also be stationed along the parade route and at the Courthouse for crowd and traffic control duties.

Onlookers are requested to observe the parade from the sidewalks only and to remain behind the crowd-control ropes along the line of march. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department auxiliary will assist Santa in distributing treats.

Postal service sees Yule mail being moved quickly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service, which has posted new limitations on overtime and hiring extra workers because of its $7-million-a-day deficit, says it still can handle what may be its busiest holiday mail season.

More than 9 billion pieces of mail are expected to move through the nation's post offices between today and Christmas Eve.

An additional burden could be mass mailings by businesses in advance of the Dec. 28 increase in postal rates. The cost of mailing a first class letter is scheduled to increase from 10 cents to 13 cents.

"All of the big mailers are going to throw in their stuff before that new rate increase comes in and it could conceivably jam up the mails very badly," said Henry Cooper, executive director of the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers.

But a Postal Service spokesman said, "We think we have anticipated every possible problem and post offices will be cleared of all mail on Christmas Eve."

Muhammad Ali sets up firm

CAIRO (AP) — World heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali is setting up a $50 million company in Cairo to sell farming and building equipment in the Middle East, says a spokesman for the firm.

Donald J. Macdonald, vice president of the Muhammad Ali Trade Development Corp., said Thursday the company will sell fertilizers, tractors, cement, steel building rods, buses and similar products.

"This is the kind of business Ali wants to do when he retires," Macdonald said. He added the company's scheduled debut in January or February is not tied to any Ali plans to retire from boxing.

Macdonald said initial capital came from Ali and Herbert Muhammad, son of the late Black Muslim leader Elijah Muhammad, and that profits will be used to build new mosques and schools in the United States.

Deputy Postmaster General W.F. Bolger this month ordered "substantial reductions in the amount of overtime used for the distribution and delivery of mail" because of the Postal Service's deficit, currently running at $7 million a day.

His letter to regional postal officials added, "The Christmas mailing period should not be excluded from our effort to reduce overtime. To the contrary, it is a unique opportunity to really reduce costs."

But heads of the two largest postal unions say overtime is the key to moving the mail this Christmas season.

"If the mail is there, then they have to pay overtime to move it out. We will get bombed with more other than Christmas cards, but if they let the professional staff handle it, then there won't be any problem," said James Rademacher, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers.

Francis Filbey, president of the American Postal Workers Union, said, "The postmaster general has assured me that overtime will be used whenever it is really necessary."

The Postal Service spokesman said, "The (1975) regulations on overtime and outside hiring were drawn up with consideration for Christmas and any extra mail we might get from people trying to beat the new rates."

"Overtime is permissible when it is needed to move the mail, and if there is a genuine need for extra help then people can be hired," he said.

Time bombs discovered on airplane

MIAMI (AP) — A jetliner on which two time bombs were found would have been in the air when the devices were to explode, officials say.

Police said the bombs were found on the Bahamasair plane Thursday just minutes before 62 holiday travelers were to board the Nassau-bound flight.

Airline official Thomas Hughes said the plane's schedule would have put it in the air on a return flight to the U.S. at noon, when the devices were set to explode.

"There was a telephoned bomb threat to airport personnel," said Police Sgt. Denis Shaw. "We found two bombs — plastic explosives with a detonator and a watch for a timer — in two different places in a lavatory."

"We removed the aircraft away from the terminal to the center of the field, and an officer of the bomb squad deactivated them. Other aircraft were searched but nothing else was found."

After the bombs aboard the aircraft were disarmed, a man identifying himself as "Ernesto" telephoned news media in Miami, said he was the leader of an organization called "Cuban Power 76" and claimed responsibility for the bombs.

He said the action was to protest the Bahamian government's law banning Miami-based Cuban lobster fishermen from waters surrounding the Bahamas.

"I don't want no innocent Americans killed," the caller said.

The Bahamas passed a law July 9 declaring the spiny lobster off limits to U.S. fishermen. More than 1,200 Cuban-exile fishermen have been thrown out of work by the edict.

In an apparently unrelated incident, a pipe bomb was discovered at an apartment complex at the University of Miami, in suburban Coral Gables, police said.

Officers said a bomb was found wedged between the solid wooden door and screen door of an apartment belonging to a Cuban-American couple.

"That thing should have gone off," said Sgt. Richard Keller. "The fuse had burned down to the cap, and it just didn't explode."

Couple saved from watery death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — On a quiet day of fishing, Allen Zovar and Susan Shepherd were blown out to sea to spend four days in a rubber raft surrounded by sharks, overwhelmed by waves and without food or water.

"It's the happiest Thanksgiving of our lives," Zovar said Thursday when they were picked up after rowing to an island. "We just kept our faith up, kept our will power up. And we prayed a lot."

Zovar, 32, a physical therapist, said he and Miss Shepherd, 26, a nurse who is separated from her husband and prefers to use her maiden name, "drank our own urine, and that saved us." Both were reported in good condition and were not hospitalized.

The couple had been fishing a quarter mile off the coast last Sunday when their raft was blown out to sea.

"The Santa Ana wind came up in about one minute and we ripped loose from the kelp," he said. "We yelled and screamed but nobody heard us. I had a pair of fins and I jumped overboard and kicked while my girlfriend rowed, but it did nothing."

Their first encounter with sharks came shortly after they were blown into the Santa Barbara Channel between the Southern California coast and offshore islands.

"We had two or three fish floating next to us on a stringer and the sharks came up and grabbed them," said Zovar. "We cut the stringer loose and just prayed."

"The third night out ... two or three sharks started circling and sliding underneath the raft," he said. "We could feel them bumping the bottom of the boat. They did that for about half an hour."

"What we did was remain silent and keep our feet off the floor so the sharks wouldn't sense there was anything alive," he said. "We figured if we were silent they might go away, and that's what they did."

The winds blew them an estimated 40 miles offshore and kicked up large waves, Zovar said, adding that "we stayed awake all the night, just bailing and fighting the waves."

On Tuesday morning the couple saw Anacapa Island about six miles away, but were blown away from the island.

On Wednesday, Zovar said, "we woke up in front of Santa Cruz Island and we tried again. We hadn't seen any rescue craft and we were being dehydrated pretty rapidly so we started out rowing Wednesday morning."

They reached the island at sundown and landed in a cove.

"We felt that God guided us into that cove," Zovar said. "In the morning we woke up and saw a mast and immediately waved everything we could."

He and Miss Shepherd were taken aboard a boat anchored in the cove. Coast Guard officials were contacted and sent a helicopter to pick up the couple.

Fromme case said 'trying' for jurors

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The trial of Charles Manson follower Lynette Fromme was a "trying" time for the jurors who convicted her of attempting to assassinate President Ford, the judge says.

U.S. District Court Judge Thomas J. MacBride said the jury, which had been sequestered during the three-week trial, sent him word that they wanted no public exposure — no press interviews, no photographs.

"This has been a trying experience for them, to say the least, and they do not want to be subjected to any more publicity than they have already," he explained.

On Thanksgiving Day, members of the jury could not be reached at their homes for comment on the deliberations preceding their verdict Wednesday.

After the verdict, Sandra Good, a friend of Miss Fromme, predicted violence to those who oppose the cult of Manson, who is serving a life sentence in connection with the 1969 slayings of actress Sharon Tate and six others.

"Your children will rise up and kill you," Miss Good told reporters. "Your own children saw what you've done. Now you've judged yourself again. You all know money is your god."

During the jury's 19½ hours of deliberations, the panel was reported deadlocked at one point, but they offered no hint of their initial voting or how they reached the guilty verdict that could send Miss Fromme to prison on a life sentence.

Both the defense and prosecution agreed that Miss Fromme was seeking publicity for Manson when she pointed a .45-caliber pistol at Ford here Sept. 5 in a park outside the state Capitol.

But the prosecution argued — successfully — that she intended to fire the gun, while the defense claimed she was just threatening the President and called for a verdict of assault, which carries a maximum 10-year sentence.

Authorities said the automatic pistol's chamber was empty, but there were four bullets in the magazine.

Carrots in the classroom

The adage, "Spare the rod and spoil the child," no longer carries much weight in educational circles. Though corporal punishment is still practiced in some school systems, it is used as a disciplinary measure; no one pretends that whacking a child will improve academic achievement.

It is the carrot, not the stick, that achieves this. The carrot works even when the alternative is not the stick, but simply withholding the carrot.

This conclusion may fairly be drawn from an experiment with fourth graders in what is described as a small, economically deprived Florida community. There is another interesting point: the reward system worked best when it was applied to an entire class rather than on an individual basis.

The fourth graders, all slow learners, were divided into groups: one class used rewards (released time for recreational activity) on an individual basis, another on a whole-class basis; a control class used no rewards. The classroom performance of pupils in the class using group rewards for good achievement scores improved dramatically. Indeed, the improvement was twice that in either the individual-reward class or the control class. Good teachers have used the carrot technique for years. The Florida tests reaffirm that it works.

A WORD EDGEWISE... By John P. Roche

Still a member of the family

It's no accident, comrades, that President Ford has changed his mind about Federal intervention to help New York City. The President has spent his life in politics, and - while conservative commentators who couldn't be elected Tree Warden in my town have been planning a joyous wake for the City of Sin - there has been a lot of movement in public opinion. What seemed like a good idea initially - to forget rural-suburban coalition against Babylon-on-the-Hudson - just won't (as the Nixon crowd used to say) "play in Peoria."

The reason for this refusal to ditch

New York is a mixture of altruism and perceived self-interest on the part of the American people, who are anything but the dummies my Tory brethren seem to consider them. I doubt if one American in 10,000 has ever heard of the failure in 1931 of an Austrian bank, the Credit-Anstalt, which triggered off bank and business failures as far away as Australia, but you don't have to be an economic historian to sense that default by New York City would have an appalling ripple effect. Indeed, the impact has already been felt by thoroughly solvent communities that have tried to float bond issues: normal investors are in hiding.

PUBLIC ATTITUDES

In this connection, a recent NBC News poll reveals some fascinating data on public attitudes towards New York. Some 52 per cent feel the Federal government should help New York with only 35 per cent opposed. Then we come to the nitty-gritty: Asked what effect a New York default would have on the nation's economy, 69 per cent thought it would be damaging. And then the statistic that really warmed my old Brooklyn heart: 85 per cent said they "cared whether New York City goes broke!"

Now if you happen to be a President of the United States hoping to get your lease on the White House renewed, you don't just throw this one in the circular file. You gather your troops in the Cabinet Room and tell them to bury that anti-Sodom pitch in the common grave with WIN and old Neise's 100 billion energy caper. Vox populi may not be vox Dei, but it's the only game in town.

There is further confirmation that the public refused to accept Ron Nessen's charitable description of New York as a "wardward daughter hooked on heroin." The NBC News pollsters handed their sample a card with a list of words and asked "which two or three" best describe New Yorkers. The result was intriguing: the top three chosen were "Sophisticated," "Stylish" and "Exciting." Then we discovered "Pushy," "Snobbish" and "Spendthrift." But the real kicker, Ron, is that "Sinful" came out at the bottom of the preferences with only 4 per cent!

AT FAULT

At this point the Uriah Heeps who led President Ford into this ambush are probably muttering that those damn liberals cooked the poll, that NBC News is full of slick operators. However, the next question and set of responses should demonstrate that NMC is not in the tank. Asked, "Who's at fault," the three reasons that jumped out far ahead were "Poor political leadership," "Welfare chiselers" and "Unions and their leaders." (Indeed, I would cry "Foul" at this list because it omitted the recession.)

There were a number of other relevant questions, but the one that stands out as an indication of public sophistication (perhaps because I made the point here a while back) is the perception that New Yorkers are "Victims of circumstances" (51 per cent) rather than people who "Brought (trouble) themselves" (35 per cent). Historically one of New York City's major imports has been the poor, formerly from abroad, more recently from the Southern states and Puerto Rico.

In the old days there were ladders up which one could climb: my father-in-law's grandfather was a baker on the Lower East Side; his son became a clergyman. My maternal grandfather was an orphan who literally pulled himself up by his own bootstraps. But today the bottom rungs have been torn from the ladders. Who needs unskilled labor? Today 150 construction workers with sophisticated equipment do a job which would have required thousands half a century ago. What is New York City supposed to do? Expel the poor, most of whom - rumors to the contrary notwithstanding - do not revel in poverty? Thank God for the good sense and compassion of the American people. And next time, Ron, try describing New York as a sophisticated daughter, stylish and exciting. That will play in Peoria.

"OK, OK, GERRY FORD'S A NICE GUY. THEN WHAT?"

Ohio Perspective

Celeste has thankless job

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Being lieutenant governor of Ohio remains mostly a thankless and unproductive task, but the present holder of the office believes it presents an opportunity for public service.

Richard F. Celeste, the 38-year-old Cuyahoga Countyman who assumed the job last Jan. 13, even says it's "a challenging situation, although slender in terms of mandated responsibilities."

A Democrat of liberal leaning, the former state representative didn't expect a great many assignments from Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes—and so far, there have been none.

In fact, the lieutenant governor hasn't talked with Rhodes in the governor's office—"only a few times when we happened somewhere to bump into each other." The two were amiable on those occasions. "He's very friendly, as you know," Celeste said.

Under the Ohio Constitution, the lieutenant governor is required only to act as the presiding officer of the Senate—he can vote only in case of a tie—and to carry out whatever assignments are given him by the governor.

The incumbent's predecessors traditionally have done little other than preside.

Celeste, an aspirant for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1978, said he thinks his present challenge "is more in the opportunities it presents for public service, and on the job training, if you will, if there ever should be any reason for me to cross the hall." His office is across the hall from that of the 66-year-old Rhodes.

The $30,000-a-year state official said he spends "a fair amount of time meeting with cabinet officials, being briefed on what's going on, and visiting state facilities and institutions. I've been doing a fair amount of that."

Celeste said his reception from Rhodes' cabinet officials has been "excellent," adding that he thinks "it's because they feel fairly remote from the governor, especially when he was so involved in the (ill-fated Nov. 4) ballot issues." He said he has met with Adjutant Gen. James C. Clem, Workmen's Compensation Administrator Kenneth E. Krouse, Mental Health Chief Timothy B. Moritz, Corrections Chief George F. Denton, and Budget and Management Director Howard L. Collier, among others. He sees Collier about every two months "to talk about the budget," the lieutenant governor said.

He said he regards the visits, along with those he has made to state parks, mental institutions, and other facilities, "a good investment of time."

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Widow needs to be snored to sleep

DEAR ABBY: My husband died last winter, and ever since, I have had a terrible time falling asleep. I don't want to get into the habit of taking sleeping pills.

I recently visited my sister, and the sound of her husband's snoring in the next room put me to sleep instantly! Every night I was there I slept like a baby. I soon realized that what I'd been missing all these months was the sound of my beloved husband's snoring. It must have given me a sense of security and well being.

I suppose it is ridiculous to ask if there is some place I can buy a record or a tape of a man snoring. But that could be the answer to my problem. Can you help me?

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS

DEAR SLEEPLESS: Ask your sister's husband to record a long snoring session on a cassette. All you'll need is something on which to play it, and you're off to dreamland!

DEAR ABBY: My son, a brilliant, ambitious honor student has just announced that he is dropping out of law school (in his second year) to get a job so he can marry a girl he has gotten pregnant.

This young man was told the facts of life early so there is no excuse for such an "accident." Nowadays, no girl has to get pregnant unless she wants to-or is awfully dumb. And Abby, this girl is far from dumb-she's 21 and a college dropout.

I can't help but feel that the girl used my son to escape from a family situation she found intolerable.

I know I can't prevent the marriage, but I would like to know how I can honestly accept this girl when I feel she used my son and cost him his lifelong dream-to become a lawyer.

CRUSHED IN COLORADO

DEAR CRUSHED: Unless you want to alienate your son completely, you had better "accept" the girl-and graciously.

If your son is as brilliant and ambitious as you say he is, he'll find a way to resume his education and realize his lifelong dream.

DEAR ABBY: I am anti-trousers for females. So much so that I refuse to extend any gentlemanly courtesies to a woman who is wearing trousers. (I won't hold a door open for her, allow her to go ahead of me or help with her chair.)

If I get a waitress who is wearing trousers, and doing a good job, she gets NO tip. If she does an excellent job, she gets only a 5 per cent tip, but I won't go back to that restaurant. A waitress wearing a skirt (length unimportant) gets anywhere from 15 percent to 25 per cent tip, depending upon the service she gives me.

My wife wears trousers once in a while. So do my daughters-in-law, but if they don't wear dresses in public, I refuse to go along. And when I don't go, they have no one to pick up the tab.

I've heard all the excuses women use for wearing pants instead of skirts—"they're more comfortable, hide the runs in my stockings, keep my legs warm in winter," etc.-but I still hate em.

PREFER SKIRTS

DEAR PREFERENCES: To each his own, but I think you're unfair to penalize a waitress just because the legs she rushes around on to serve you happen to be in trousers!

In 1919, the first woman to be seated in the British House of Commons, Lady Astor, was elected.

In 1942, nearly 500 persons died in a fire that destroyed the Coconut-Grove night club in Boston.

In 1969, West Germany's new government under Chancellor Willy Brandt took its first major foreign policy step by signing the nuclear nonproliferation treaty.

Ten years ago: The Roman Catholic Church in Rhodesia bitterly criticized the government of Prime Minister Ian Smith for having seized independence from Britain.

Five years ago: Robert Morton was taking over as U.S. Secretary of the Interior after President Richard Nixon's firing of Walter Hickel.

One year ago: Secretary of State Henry Kissinger ended talks with Communist Chinese officials in Peking without any new major breakthrough in improving relations between the U.S. and China.

Today's birthdays: Singer Rose Hampton is 68. Italian writer Alberto Moravia is 68.

The Crucifixion

And he bearing his cross went forth into . . . the place of a skull, which is called in the Hebrew Golgotha: Where they crucified him. — St. John 19: 17-18

As Jesus, bearing the weight of his heavy cross, was being led by the soldiers to Golgotha, to be crucified, they came upon a man from Cyrene named Simon whom they compelled to share Christ's burden so that the journey might be hastened. Arriving at Golgotha, they gave their victim a potion of vinegar and gall but Jesus, tasting it, refused to drink. So they set up the cross and crucified him—with a thief on either side of him. Then they rent his garments and divided them and cast lots for his robe which was woven without seam. Over his head they placed an inscription written by Pilate himself. It read JESUS OF NAZARETH THE KING OF THE JEWS. Then they waited . . .

Midway church conducts colonial worship service

Midway Presbyterian Church will be the setting for an authentic Colonial Worship Service next Sunday. As villagers approach the meeting-house they will be welcomed by the blowing of a conch shell, which served the purpose of a church bell in those early years. As the people enter the sanctuary and are ushered down the aisle by the sombre roll of Kevin Smith's drum-beats, many will be costumed in the quaint fashion of the Mayflower set.

In the processional by Beadle Richard Smith bearing the Bible will be the Acolytes, Precentors Paul Allen and Bill Schaefer, and Pastor Curtis Hodgens.

No re-enactment of a Colonial Worship Service would be complete without the Tithing-man, whose presence was to assure proper decorum. This role falls to Joe Emrich, and the "jewel of his office" will be an elongated dowel stick. On one end will be a feather with which he will tickle the nose of any lady caught nodding, while on the other end will dangle a leather thong - bad news for any male member discovered drowsing.

Precentors Allen and Schaefer will "line the Psalms" as the pilgrims were wont to do, while people will come forward in family units and place their gifts on the communion table. Various parts of the service will be narrated in the Elizabethan accents of Gene Wilt.

Presbyterians elect officials

Four newly elected trustees of the First Presbyterian Church were installed into their offices on Sunday, Nov. 16. Russell Geibelhouse, Jim Purcell, and Dick Maddux will serve 3-year periods, and Mrs. Grove Davis will serve a 2-year term.

The Deacons of the congregation were ordained on Sunday, Nov. 23, after a vote by the church members on Nov. 2. At that time, a proposed budget was approved, and the by-laws of the congregation were revised to enlarge the Board of Deacons to 12 members. Deacons elected for 3-year terms were: Gary Herdman, Ircel Knedler, Marcia Seifried, and Robert Yates, while Lester Bower and Hank Shaffer were elected for one and two year terms respectively. Debbie Dunn will fill an unexpired term of one year. All of these electees will take office on January 1, 1976.

The Board of Deacons in the church serve as the outreach and mission concern group, caring for the needy in the community and congregation, and assisting the pastor in visitation and concern for sick and shut-ins.

Church organ in renovation

The old pump organ which occupied the left-hand corner of the chancel area at Memphis United Methodist Church has joined the Twentieth Century. The congregation has had the antique organ renovated and electrified, so that its long-stilled voice will again add harmony to the Sunday morning worship service.

A time for members and friends of Memphis Church to hear the organ, to enjoy a time of fellowship, and to rededicate the instrument to God's glory has been set for Sunday, December 7, 1975, at 3 p.m. The program will consist of the rededication ritual, a musical program on organ and piano, and vocal music provided by the Clintonnaires, a county-wide women's choir.

The public is invited to share in this occasion to kick off the Christmas season. The Church is located at the crossroads of Rt. 72 and Luttrell Road.

SINGING TRIO — For their monthly program, The First Church of the Nazarene youth fellowship will feature the Johnson Sisters Trio of Xenia. The service begins at 7 p.m., Nov. 30.

Miss Satterfield, Mr. Welsh exchange marriage vows

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McAllister was the setting Nov. 15 for the marriage of Ruth Evelyn Satterfield and Randall Dean Welsh. The bride is the daughter of Forrest Satterfield of Mount Sterling, and Mrs. Russell Dilley of 1041 Broadway. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Billie Welsh of Bloomingburg.

Rev. Michael Henry performed the wedding ceremony at 7 p.m. before a fireplace enhanced with white tapers and arrangements of pink and white carnations.

Attendants for the couple were Mrs. James Marine, matron of honor, and Mr. Marine, who served as best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a sheer organza wedding gown with fitted bodice, mandarin collar and long, full sleeves ending with long full cuffs. The A-line skirt with embroidered flower appliques had a band of satin at the hemline. Her full-length train fell gracefully at the back, and the veil of illusion was held by a cluster of petals and seed pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of carnations.

The bride's step mother wore a two piece brown and beige knit dress and her mother a pale blue knit with silver accessories. Mrs. Welsh, the groom's mother, wore a two piece cranberry and pink knit suit. Both mothers wore corsages.

A reception followed with hostesses Mrs. Janet McAllister and Mrs. Michael McAllister.

Guests for the wedding came from Mount Sterling, Jeffersonville and Washington C.H.

The couple is residing in Bloomingburg.

MR. AND MRS. GARY L. DODDS

Doan-Dodds marriage vows exchanged in Methodist Church

Wearing the bridal gown her mother wore at her wedding, Miss Sarah Elizabeth (Lisa) Doan became the bride of Gary Lee Dodds in First United Methodist Church, Greenfield.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Glenn B. Doan, of Greenfield, and Mr. Dodds parents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dodds of New Petersburg.

Rev. Clarence Dinnen officiated at the double ring ceremony following a prelude of wedding music by the bride's uncle, Robert Cornuelle, Cincinnati, vocalist, and Mrs. Ralph W. Phillips, organist, who also played the processional and recessional. Mr. Cornuelle's selections were "Wedding Prayer," "Wedding Song" and "Because."

Gracing the altar was a fan shaped arrangement of autumn toned gladioli, rose colored daisy pompons, blue Fuji chrysanthemums, bronze pompons and yellow statice accented with butterfly and autumn toned ribbon. Two standing nine-branch candelabra were entwined with Emerald greens and California ivy and draped with the same satin ribbon. Cascades of leatherleaf and autumn toned ribbon marked pews of the bridal aisle.

During the ceremony, the bridal couple lighted a wedding candle signifying the unity of marriage.

Dr. Doan escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. Her heirloom gown of candlelit satin, adorned with pearls and silver beads, fastened up the back with tiny self covered buttons. The fitted bodice featured a jeweled sweetheart neckline and long tapered sleeves that came to points at the wrists with the self covered buttons. The gently flared floor length skirt swept into a wide cathedral train. Her cathedral length tiered veil of candlelit satin flowed from a satin covered headpiece.

The bride carried a cascade of white daisies, stephanotis, soft colored Sonia Sweetheart roses and babies' breath with streamers of bridal picoté ribbon. She carried a dainty hankiechief that brides in her family have carried for five generations.

Mrs. Lester VonBargen was matron of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Larry Snodgrass, sister of the bride, her cousin and roommate, Miss Linda Cornuelle, and the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Gary Mustard. Their sleeveless formal length gowns were fashioned of silk organza in soft shades of pink and blue floral print on an olive green background, overlaying matching green taffeta. Their matching sheer floral print waist-length capelets with attached hoods were held in place by headpieces of small pink and blue blossoms and olive green and pink ribbon. Wide ruffles encircled the hemlines. Their gold cross necklaces were given them by the bride. Each attendant carried a natural wicker basket arranged with rose daisy pompons, blue Fuji mums, bronze button poms, yellow statice, and rose carnations with pink and orange blend and autumn green corsage ribbon.

Junior bridesmaids, Cindy Von Bargen and Laura Beth Von Bargen, and the little flower girl, Christine Snodgrass, nieces of the bride, were in floor-length high waisted frocks of the same olive green, pink and blue silk organza over olive taffeta like the gowns of the senior attendants. The necklines were rounded and the long full sleeves puffed to the wrists. The full skirts with ruffled hemlines were enhanced with sashes of olive green velvet ribbon with back bows and streamers. Their hair was combed back in a cascade of curls caught in petite headpieces of fresh pink and blue florets.

The three girls had gold cross necklaces, gifts of the bride, and each carried a smaller wicker basket filled with daisies, Fuji and button mums, carnations and statice in fall tones and touched with olive green and butterfly corsage ribbon.

The mother of the bride chose a formal length long sleeved gown of rust quiana. The high collar flipped over at the back neckline into a wide flowing back drape. Her corsage was yellow carnations and white daisies.

The bridegroom's mother was attired in a floral print pink, white and black knit floor length gown complimented with a white knit stole. Her corsage was rose colored carnations. The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Carl Cornuelle, wore a black and red print gown with a corsage of white carnations.

Serving Mr. Dodds as best man was George Dodds. Ushers were Steven Dodds, Joe Clyburn, and the bride's brother Bill Doan. Eric Von Bargen, nephew of the bride, carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church Fellowship Hall. The bride's table was laid with a hand made crocheted cloth overlaying a bouffant floor length drape of white tulle. Appointments were in crystal and silver and the bridal motif. The tiered decorated cake was crowned with a cluster of wedding bells and garlanded with leatherleaf, white daisies and babies' breath. Triple branch silver candelabra and the crystal punch bowl were ringed with fern and daisies in assorted fall colors.

Assisting with hostess duties were Mrs. Joe Clyburn, Mrs. Jerry Snyder, Mrs. George Dodds, and Mrs. Rick Bryers. Mrs. Marion Dodds presided at the guest book.

When the couple departed on a honeymoon camping trip throughout Kentucky, the new Mrs. Dodds was wearing a long floral corduroy caftan.

The bride is employed in the office of her father, Dr. Doan. Mr. Dodds is

Juan Carlos eyes liberal regime

MADRID, Spain (AP) — King Juan Carlos, bolstered by a massive show of support in the streets, today was reported preparing to name a new head of parliament in another test of his political program to liberalize Spain.

Top political leaders said the king's selection to replace — or continue — Alejandro Rodriguez Valcarcel could indicate the course the new leader expects to follow in the weeks ahead.

Juan Carlos, cheered by thousands of Spaniards and recognized by West European leaders at a gala ceremony in the Spanish capital Thursday, met with Rodriguez Valcarcel at the end of the day's events. There was no word from the king's Zarzuela Palace on what the two discussed.

An arch conservative, Rodriguez Valcarcel was named president of parliament six years ago by Gen. Francisco Franco, Spain's autocratic leader for 36 years before his death Nov. 20. The parliament president officially ended his term two days ago.

The king has the power to keep him on for eight more days, reappoint him to the job, or replace him.

Spain's center-left opposition has said Rodriguez Valcarcel's removal is necessary on grounds he is a hangover from the Franco regime.

Juan Carlos, king and head of state now for six days, made his first move to appease Franco's longtime political opposition earlier this week by granting general amnesty to an estimated 15,000 prisoners.

But the left said the decree failed to cover many political prisoners, including the nation's top labor leader, Marcelino Camacho, serving six years for illegal association.

Camacho is considered the head of the clandestine trade unions — workers' commissions — whose membership is estimated between 200,000 and 400,000.

Term paper salesman rolling in the cash

By TOM BALDWIN
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — His professors at the University of South Carolina would be proud of 28-year-old John Magee — maybe.

Magee studied marketing at South Carolina. Then he took a job selling insurance. "I sold a lot," he says. "They were going to put me into management. But the whole thing got me depressed."

Magee quit insurance. Via a newspaper ad he stumbled onto an idea. It might, he thought, be a money-maker: sell term papers to college students.

A popular rock song fills Magee's paneled suite of offices as the youthful entrepreneur — in jeans and casual shirt — intones, "Wherever there's a demand for something, you'll be able to sell your product.... There's always been a demand for term papers. There always will be."

Magee's firm, Collegiate Research Systems, is four years old. Its founder laughs when he admits: "Yeah, I guess if things keep going the way they have I'll make a million dollars at it."

He first tried the term paper business in New Orleans. He was run out of town. "The D.A., the newspapers, everyone was down on us."

He heard then that Pennsylvania had just written a law against selling term papers. Ideal. He set up shop in Camden, N.J., just across the Delaware River from Philadelphia.

"We put advertisements up at Penn. They sent us a letter saying the district attorney was going to investigate us if we ever came back," he said. "But things now are different. That was two years ago. Now they don't care what we put up — as long as we don't put staples into live trees."

Before Magee sells a term paper, the customer has to sign a purchase agreement on which there is a disclaimer, "with this purchase I have no intent to defraud any school."

"We sort of expect them to rewrite the paper. I'd be afraid to use it just as I got it," says Magee. "Every college bookstore in the country carries Cliff's Notes, Monarch Notes. Maybe someday they'll be selling our term papers."

Magee, who recently opened two new offices in Rutherford, N.J. and Los Angeles, claims his company isn't "trying to fool anyone.... What's the difference if we do it or the kid's roommate does it? How about fraternities that have them on file? Or the professor who writes a book and makes it mandatory reading for his classes? Or the politician who has his speeches written for him?"

Magee's catalogue lists thousands of term papers. Whatever the subject, if he doesn't have it he'll get it.

For instance No. 7038-A, "Nigeria's Agriculture Economy," is five pages long, written from three sources and costs the buyer $27.50 — with a $3 charge if you want same-day service. It cost Magee $7.50 to have the paper written. Free-lance writers, jobless college profs, schoolteachers, housewives. These make up his stable of writers. He pays them a penny a word.

The writer pens the paper and sells it once. Magee can sell it 100 times. "It's just good business," he says.

'Little black book' block to gamblers

By BRENDAN RILEY
Associated Press Writer
CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — If cheating at cards is your game, you may already be listed in a little-known "black book" used in efforts to curb losses of millions of dollars yearly in Nevada casinos.

The book is the work of a private detective who won't talk about it, and is different than the state's official "black book" of underworld types barred from casinos.

The state's book is aimed at keeping out unsavory types who might try to muscle in on club management.

The private "black book" is literally a handy reference manual on known or suspected slot "mechanics," card or dice cheaters, gambling chip thieves and others who use tricks to increase their odds of winning at gambling.

In most cases, the book furnishes a photograph, physical description and method of operation of each person listed. Other details can include the type of car the person uses, and names of any known associates.

The book is about four inches thick and is crammed with hundreds of names and photographs that can be checked quickly when club managers spot suspicious activity.

Names in the book can also be checked against names of applicants for jobs. If either job hunters or suspicious characters are listed, they're likely to be booted out promptly.

Bob Griffin, a former Clark County sheriff's officer, started the book about nine years ago as part of his private detective agency services. He sells the book at a rate which can top $1,000 a month to casinos throughout Nevada.

Griffin declined to comment on the book. He said he considers it confidential and didn't want any publicity on it.

Griffin's publication has caused some court hassles. Former state Gaming Commissioner Frank Schreck said recently that use of the book raised questions about civil liberties of those listed in its pages.

But Schreck said the book has never been declared specifically illegal or unconstitutional.

TV Viewing

NEW YORK (AP) — This isn't a good season for new series. The networks have axed a total of 16 series, of which 15 were new. That's a pretty high doom rate for a season that began with 26 new series.

At this time last year, the networks only had cancelled 12 series, 11 of which were among the 24 new shows in the 1974 ratings race.

ABC, the last network to announce its mid-season program changes, this week dropped six programs, among them Howard Cosell's low-rated, highly-publicized Saturday variety show. Its finale will be on Jan. 17.

It was a new series, as were four other casualties — "Barbary Coast," "Mobile One," "When Things Were Rotten" and "Matt Helm." The only veteran getting the ax was "That's My Mama."

The interesting thing about this season's program-whacking is that shows in the heavily-sanitized, much-criticized "family hour" accounted for most of the cancellations.

A total of 11 "family hour" shows, 10 of them new, have been dropped — five by ABC, four by NBC and three by CBS.

In announcing its mid-season changes, ABC said it's putting five new series, a Monday night movie program and an eightpart dramatization of Irwin Shaw's novel, "Rich Man, Poor Man" on the air this winter.

Although Cosell is leaving, ABC is trying again with a new variety show, this one on Friday nights with the singing Osmond family.

It's also installing a new situation comedy, "Laverne and Shirley," a nostalgia spin-off from "Happy Days." Another spin-off is "The Bionic Woman" series, which began on "The Six Million Dollar Man."

"Almost Anything Goes," a series of outlandish amateur sports events which ABC tried out this summer, is returning this winter as the replacement for Cosell's Saturday night variety attempt.

And there'll be yet another cop series, "Superstar." It stars Paul Sorvino as a New York detective who moves to San Francisco. He'll be introduced in a segment of — you guessed it — "Streets of San Francisco."

Two situation comedies also will have new evenings in ABC's winter lineup. They're "On the Rocks," which is moving from Thursdays to Mondays, and "Welcome Back, Kotter," which will shift from Tuesdays to Thursdays.

Other than ABC's "Rich Man, Poor Man" programs, there appears nothing innovative in the mid-season entertainment schedules the networks have drawn up. "More of the same" seems the common theme, with the usual heavy emphasis on cops and comedy.

By my count, there'll be 21 cop or private eye shows and 23 situation comedies on tap when the mid-season starts in January. There'll also be six "action-adventure" series, plus five movie nights and five variety shows.

We'll have more on the midseason lineup in coming editions. Until then, stay tuned for the big show... life is but the station break.

Vanik plans IRS probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Rep. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, says he will launch an investigation and will hold hearings in January on alleged corruption within the Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

Vanik, chairman of a House subcommittee which monitors the IRS, said Thursday that he is dissatisfied with a Ford administration probe into the agency and that he doubts the Justice and Treasury Departments could objectively investigate the IRS.

Vanik will look into the suspension a year ago of a major IRS investigation into possible tax evasion by several hundred rich Americans with investments in tax-free countries such as the Bahamas, the Cayman Islands and the Netherlands Antilles.

The IRS says it stopped the investigation because IRS informants used illegal tactics to obtain information about supposedly secret accounts by the persons being investigated.

Rural Jackson hunter killed

JACKSON, Ohio (AP) — David McCoy, 19, of rural Jackson County, was killed Thursday morning in a hunting accident, authorities said.

McCoy was hunting with his brother Keith, 11, and their father when Keith's gun accidentally went off and the shot struck and killed his brother, authorities said.

The accident occurred on the youths' grandfather's farm.

City Council cuffnotes

'Paraphernalia' ordinance okayed

An ordinance prohibiting the possession for sale or sale of (drug-related) paraphernalia in Washington C.H. was unanimously approved by City Council members during their regular semi-monthly meeting Wednesday.

City Council members, during the two-hour session, also handled a variety of other matters including the employment of a city engineering firm, the appointment of two men to fill vacancies on the city planning commission and the city zoning board of appeals.

The adoption of the paraphernalia ordinance is somewhat of a milestone for the city since there is presently no state statute on the matter.

However, Washington C.H. Police Chief Rodman Scott said the ordinance adopted by City Council is similar to one approved by the Indiana State legislature this year. He also pointed out that it is possible a similar measure will be introduced into the Ohio legislature during its next session.

The ordinance defines paraphernalia as "any instrument or device used for ingesting, smoking, inhaling, administering or preparing any hallucinogen or narcotic drug." Violation of the ordinance is a first-degree misdemeanor offense, while under the recently-approved Indiana law violation is a felony and carries a prison sentence.

Council member Mrs. Bertha McCullough said, "There is a place in town where any youngster, regardless of age, can buy the paraphernalia." She did not disclose the place of business.

The ordinance was declared as an emergency and passed, although Mrs. McCullough, who sponsored the measure, had hoped for three readings.

Council members employed Gale L. Helms and Associates, Inc., "as needed." The city manager will be able to engage the services for the firm at his discretion.

Donald Foster, 954 Old Chillicothe Road, was appointed by Council to the Washington C.H. City Planning Commission. Foster will complete the unexpired term of Carleton C. Johnson. The term expires May 1, 1976.

Another resolution was approved confirming the appointment of Edward W. Sexton, 363 Carolyn Road, to the City Zoning Board of Appeals to fill the unexpired term of John Morris. The appointment will become effective Jan. 1 when Morris is seated on City Council.

Sexton's term on the zoning board will end June 1, 1977.

IN OTHER matters, City Council: —voiced no objections to a request from O.E. Hardway Post No. 3672, Veterans of Foreign Wars, to transfer its D-4 liquor permit to the new post home on Water Street; — authorized an ordinance be prepared for action at the next meeting concerning a request to vacate an alley on the Convenient Food Mart property on W. Court Street;

— approved reimbursement of $268.32 in expenses incurred by

Washington C.H. firemen E.J. Helt and Richard Reed while attending a scuba diving school in Dayton. Ninety per cent of the $268 expense was for transportation;

— heard a report on a meeting of the Fayette County Disaster Services Agency's executive committee at which disaster warning equipment was discussed; and — agreed to place a parking meter in front of a vacant Ashland Oil service station on W. Court Street following a request by Council member John E. Rhoads.

On temporary basis

Tax administrator appointed by city

Raldon M. Smith, 441 East St., has been named to the position of city income tax administrator, it was announced Wednesday night.

City Manager George H. Shapter said Smith has accepted the position on a temporary basis effective Dec. 3.

Smith's one-year contract with the Fayette County Board of Commissioners as full-time director of the Fayette County Disaster Services Agency expires Dec. 3. After that date, the disaster services agency director's job will become a part-time position.

Although the city income tax officially terminated Nov. 15, Shapter said it will take approximately six months to close out the tax collections. Washington C.H. voters repealed the one per cent tax at the November election.

"A diligent for a complete and impartial collection of taxes due the city is being made," Shapter said.

In addition to collecting taxes due on the latest income tax, which was imposed for collection purposes in April, city officials are also preparing a list of delinquent taxpayers from 1971. The delinquencies will be referred to the city solicitor's office for prosecution.

Computerized records are being used to send notices to Washington C.H. residents who did not return income tax questionnaires and also to those who have not yet filed quarterly returns.

In a related matter, City Council authorized payment of $852 to the Steele Data Processing firm for additional auditing the company handled in completing computerized records for the collection of the city tax. The payment was authorized by a 6-1 vote with Council member Billie Wilson dissenting.

Judge blasts parole board

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Adult Parole Authority thinks the state's judges should go easier when they sentence convicted criminals. Columbus Judge Fred J. Shoemaker thinks the parole authority should be abolished.

Shoemaker, a Franklin County Common Pleas Court judge, fired off a blistering response to a recommendation by Ohio Adult Parole Authority Probation Supt. J. H. Calhoun to consider probation more often in handing down sentences.

Shoemaker told Calhoun the parole board's ideas for lowering the state's prison population are "great—for the criminals."

Shoemaker said the parole authority favors criminals over victims and is too lenient with repeat offenders by putting them on parole again and again.

Calhoun's letter pointed out some alternatives to prison sentences, particularly stressing probation in cases of nonviolent crimes. The same letter went to other judges around the state.

Calhoun's letter cited an American Bar Association committee recommendation that the "automatic response in a sentencing situation ought to be probation."

Shoemaker—who seldom spares the sentence in criminal cases—replied: "The public should stop the Ohio Parole Authority from placing repeat and dangerous offenders on parole time and time again."

He added, "Your efforts to reduce the prison population by placing more convicted criminals on the streets...is a dismal failure."

Shoemaker called for mandatory prison sentences for the crimes of breaking and entering.

Citizens study group receives Council OK

Washington C.H. City Council Wednesday night unanimously approved a resolution to form a citizens study committee to work closely with the city manager and city lawmakers on a wide variety of concerns.

The resolution directs City Manager George H. Shapter to appoint a steering committee which will nominate additional persons to serve on the committee, establish overall direction for the committee and provide on-going leadership for the committee.

City Council member Mrs. Bertha McCullough sponsored the resolution and pointed out that Council has long felt the need for such a committee. She also said that Council must deal with a wide variety of concerns and seldom has time to go into depth on all of them.

The committee, which will work in close cooperation with the city manager, City Council and other community groups, will examine community concerns in depth, make recommendations to the city manager for his consideration, consider long range community development projects, develop communications with the community as a whole, and take an initiative in resolving community concerns.

Judge sentences theft defendant to jail term

A Bloomingburg man was fined $300 and court costs and sentenced to serve 30 days in jail with two days suspended by Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge Reed M. Winegardner during Wednesday's court proceeding.

Benny W. Laytart, 26, of Bloomingburg, had been arrested by the Fayette County Sheriff's department and charged with petty theft Nov. 24. Judge Winegardner found him guilty of stealing a pocketbook belonging to Linda E. Manns which contained $7 and personal belongings. Judge Winegardner also accepted a bond forfeiture in the amount of $100 from a Hilliard man who was arrested by Fayette County game protector Jerry Cremeans and charged with killing and possessing a hen pheasant. The man, Lannie Harris, 24, committed the alleged offense Nov. 16.

Coretta King wants new investigation

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Coretta King, widow of slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King, has called for a reopening of the investigation of her husband's assassination, which she says was apparently the result of a government conspiracy.

"I don't have the facts but at this stage I say it appears there was a conspiracy in the death of my husband," she said in an interview Thursday.

Mrs. King, who is in Nairobi on a three-nation African tour, commented on the admission by the FBI that it undertook a harassment campaign to discredit King, and a subsequent order by Atty. Gen. Edward Levi of a review of the agency's investigation of King's shooting death in 1968. James Earl Ray pleaded guilty to the killing in Memphis, Tenn., and was sentenced to 99 years in prison.

"The way he was documented and followed around by Hoover and the CIA when he was abroad, it would have to have been attached to the forces of our government that felt he was a threat to the system as it existed," Mrs. King said, referring to the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency and the late FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover.

"I think there are grounds for reopening the case," she said. "I have always felt there was more to it than came out. I also felt somehow in the long run of history it would be revealed — just what did happen."

She said she felt recent investigations into the FBI and CIA provided new evidence.

"I feel it requires further investigation into the death of my husband, as well as the assassinations of others from the Kennedys on."

In Washington, meanwhile, former King aide Ralph David Abernathy and comedian Dick Gregory led 30 other persons in a brief march in front of the White House to demand President Ford order a new "independent investigation" of the slaying.

Traffic Court

A Jeffersonville woman was found not guilty of changing lanes without safety by Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge Reed M. Winegardner during Wednesday's court proceedings.

Linda J. Stone, 28, was charged with the offense Oct. 24 by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department. According to the report, Ms. Stone passed a line of slow moving vehicles on Ohio 41 and caused an oncoming car to travel off the road and hit a tree. The case was dismissed and court costs were waived.

Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case, who also sat on the bench Wednesday, found Charles W. Johnson, 21, London, guilty of reckless operation and fined him $100 and court costs.

Aussies in bitter election drive

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — From the streets of Sydney to the lonely outback, Australia is going through the most bitter and costly election campaign in its 74 years as a nation.

With each major party claiming in all seriousness that dictatorship and economic ruin will ensue unless it is elected, feelings are running high and tempers short as the country approaches election day Dec. 13.

Angry taxi drivers in Sydney have pressed their two-way radios into the political battle, shouting "Rubbish!" and "You mug!" at anyone in the next cab who doesn't like their party. Party supporters are being urged to buy "bronze loyalty plaques"—at $190 apiece — with the image of their leader.

The Labor party says it expects to spend the equivalent in Australian currency of $952,000 and sources in the conservative Liberal party say they figure their expenses will run about $1.3 million for the three-week campaign. Both say this is the largest they have ever spent on an election.

Individual candidates for the House of Representatives and the Senate are limited to $630 each but this law is winked at by practically everyone.

The nation's seven million voters are rallying behind either Labor party leader Gough Whitlam, who was fired as prime minister Nov. 11 by Queen Elizabeth's representative, or behind the caretaker government under Malcolm Fraser's Liberal party.

There are the usual buttons and bumper stickers — including "I'm a Liberal lover" for Fraser's supporters and the sarcastic "Fraser, you're really beginning to scare me" from the Labor camp. Advertising agencies for both parties are hard at work.

Bumper stickers brought grief to a group of Labor supporters in Canberra, the federal capital. Liberal supporters, who often accuse Labor people of Socialist leanings, poured red paint over the stickers and the rest of the cars.

Labor men, who accuse the Liberals of being in the palm of big business and foreign monopolies, got in their licks by kicking in the sides of a luxury automobile in Sydney.

Fraser's Liberals are stressing Australia's 12.6 per cent inflation rate and the 5 per cent jobless rate — twice last year's — in the 6-million-member work force. They claim the Labor government could have shielded Australia far better from worldwide recession.

Whitlam maintains his government did the best it could under the economic conditions, and is directing most of his effort at claiming Fraser's forces unseated him in a "bloodless coup d'etat" that defied all Australian political conventions.

Governor General Sir John Kerr, the queen's representative, dismissed

Whitlam after Fraser's coalition, which controls the Senate, blocked Whitlam's 1975-76 budget for 28 days and the government began running out of money.

Junior class opens annual cookie sale

It has been a tradition for over 15 years for the Washington High School junior class to sponsor a cookie sale. It runs from Thanksgiving through the beginning of Christmas holiday vacation.

The tins this year are decorated with a snow-sledding scene, and are in a cardboard container which is suitable for mailing purposes. The cost is $375 for the two pounds of butter cookies. Junior class members are hoping to sell 500 containers this year. A dollar profit is realized for each container of cookies sold.

The cookies were purchased from the Maurice Lenell Cooky Co. of Chicago, Ill.

Profits are used for the junior and senior Prom and for other activities during the senior year. There is a top prize of $25 for the student who sells the most.

The junior class expresses its thanks to the community and school for their support.

Officers of the junior class are president, Mike McDonald; vice-president, Mark Burk; secretary, Toni Conley, and treasurer, Linda Morrison. The class advisor is Donald J. Moore.

The delegates who attended the conference were president Tim O'Flynn, vice president Hugh Patton, secretary Jeff Henry, chaplain Mike Pope, treasurer John Walker, Dan Rogers, Duane Six, Greg Earp, and advisors George Shoemaker and Davis Mustine.

The delegates participated in group discussions pertaining to club leadership and ways to better their community. The highlight of the weekend was the reception of the Honor

Club Award. The Washington Senior Hi-Y Club won the award for the second straight year by achieving the honor club standards set by the West Virginia-Ohio YMCA.

Report four road deaths

By The Associated Press
At least four persons had died in Ohio traffic accidents by early today in the extended holiday period, the State Highway Patrol reported.

The count began Wednesday evening and extends through midnight Sunday. Safety experts predict 24 will die during the 102-hour period.

The dead:

THURSDAY
CHILLICOTHE — Riley Coriell, 38, of Cardington, in a two-car accident on Ohio 23 in southern Ross County.

CONNEAUT — Michael Ogran, 26, of Conneaut, when his car ran off a Conneaut street and slammed into a tree.

PAINESVILLE — Nick R. Valardo, 20, of Madison in a one-car accident on a Lake County road.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT
PIQUA — Laura Godfrey, 5, of Melvindale, Mich., in a one-car crash on Interstate 75 south of Piqua. Six of the 11 people in the car were injured.

Robbery attempt ends in death

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A robbery attempt at a north side Columbus carryout ended in death Wednesday night for the would-be robber, police said.

They said Lorenzo Cole, 24, robbed the carryout at gunpoint. As he fled down the street, police said, the store's owner, Earl Cox, chased after him with his own gun and fired twice. One of the slugs hit Cole in the back of the head, police said. He died a short time later.

Pope Paul confident of church cooperation

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Pope Paul VI said today he is confident Roman Catholic collaboration with the World Council of Churches will "grow even greater."

His message, read to the General Assembly of the interdenominational body, was one of several sent by reigning heads of various major branches of Christianity, including the patriarchs of Moscow, Constantinople and Ethiopia.

Pope Paul told the representatives of 271 Protestant, Orthodox, Anglican and Old Catholic denominations totaling nearly 500 million members that "your desire for unity and reconciliation coincides with our own."

Noting that he had appointed 16 Roman Catholic delegate-observers who are participating in the assembly and that Catholics had undertaken various cooperative functions with the council, he said:

"We trust that efforts which the Catholic Church has made and will continue to make to promote the ecumenical movement and, wherever possible to collaborate with the World Council of Churches, will continue and grow even greater with God's help."

There have been joint discussions about possible Roman Catholic membership in the council, but consideration of it lately has been sidelined. Roman Catholics take a regular part in some council operations and commissions on doctrine, and on justice and peace.

In about 25 countries, Roman Catholic branches have become members of national councils of churches in recent years. A major exception is the United States.

Ecumenical Patriarch Dimitrios I of Constantinople (modern Istanbul), chief spiritual leader of all Eastern Orthodoxy, said in his message that the assembly has a "major responsibility in the history of the ecumenical movement and in the life of the contemporary world."

Circleville awesome in league opener

By Phil Lewis
Record-Herald Sports Editor

The South Central Ohio League cage teams will get ten days off due to the Thanksgiving holiday to either regroup or polish their games depending on whether they won or lost Tuesday night in the SCOL openers.

All eight teams will matchup again one week from tonight with the key game being at the McClain gym as Circleville invades Greenfield. That contest may show whether Circleville, under new coach Jim Bailey, simply outclassed a poor Unioto team in the opener or are capable of playing near-perfect basketball.

The Tigers turned in an awesome performance for the hometown crowds Tuesday taking apart the Shermans 89-54 in a game that wasn't as close as it sounded.

The Tigers stormed to a 57-12 half-time lead over new head coach Dave Warner's inexperienced Sherman five. With potential all-star George Moore and forward Biff Bumgarner clearing the defensive boards the Tigers were able to work their fastbreak to perfection hitting on 13 of 17 shots in the first quarter.

If Bailey hadn't pulled his starters early in the second quarter and allowed his top players to play only three minutes of the second half, the Tigers may have embarrassed the Sherman's by an 80-point spread.

Not only can the Tigers shoot—60 per cent from the field—but their man-to-man defense seems capable of holding most teams to under 40 points a game. Unioto got just 12 in the first half Tuesday and the Tigers limited McClain to just 14 in one-half of action in the league preview.

If the Tigers are for real, the league race should only hold excitement this year when looking for the second-place finisher.

Greenfield McClain fought back from a ten-point deficit in the first half to knot the score at the end of regulation time and send the Hillsboro Indians into overtime.

McClain got the winning basket with just 23 seconds left in the overtime period and went on to a 59-55 league opening win.

Greenfield tied the game at 49 apiece with nearly three minutes remaining and decided to go for the last shot after regaining possession. The Tigers stalled for a full minute before Jim Jones drew a foul and hit both ends of the one-and-one.

McClain regained the ball seconds later and again went into the stall. Time ticked away until with only seconds remaining Eric Dunson drew a foul, but missed the first shot in the penalty situation.

Hillsboro cleared the boards and Al McKenzie swooped in for a layup at the buzzer to tie it up.

Washington C.H.'s 75-70 win over Madison Plains and Wilmington's victory over Miami Trace left four teams at the top of the league standings.

In the next league matchups, the Blue Lions take on Unioto, Trace hosts Madison Plains, Wilmington meets Hillsboro and Circleville puts its talents up against McClain in the big matchup at Greenfield.

Fayette Countains bitten by motocross 'racing bug'

Motocross racing — guiding a motorcycle over a tricky, natural obstacle course — has been growing in popularity with both the old and the young throughout the nation in recent years.

One Fayette County family has been bitten by the motocross bug and every weekend for the past year they have packed up their station wagon with two or three motorcycles and headed for the nearest moto-course.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Forsythe don't do any racing of their own. They are there as spectators and provide encouragement for their 14-year-old son, Eddie, who is one of the best motocross racers in the Midwest.

Eddie is currently in second place in the district 11 American Motorcycle Association point rankings for his age group which has a 16-year-age limit. District 11 encompasses Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio.

Two weeks ago, Eddie brought home the top prize from a motocross race at Glen Este Speedway in Cincinnati to add to his collection of nearly 70 silver and gold trophies.

Eddie has been racing for little over a year, and he already gives the men in the 16-and-over age group a lesson in motocross racing. He first got interested in the sport when he attended a race with a friend and borrowed a bike to compete in one of the motos. He has been racing nearly every Sunday since.

A Motocross race consists of two motos — six laps on a one to one and a half mile bumpy course which includes hills, curves, dips and other natural hazards.

It's a dangerous sport with wrecks inevitable and injuries frequent, but so is football contends Mrs. Forsythe, who readily admits she immensely enjoys watching Eddie throttle to victory.

Each contestant is required to wear protective boots and helmets. Eddie also sports a chest protector and gloves for added security, but he still has several small scars on various parts of his body from spills on the dirt tracks.

The racing is not only hard on bodies, but also bikes as most of the week in between races is devoted to breaking down the machine, cleaning each part, and reassembling it.

It is also an expensive sport as Mr. Forsythe will attest. A back tire usually only lasts through three or four races and a lot of time and money goes to replacing and cleaning the mud off parts.

The weekly breakdown of the motorcycle leaves Eddie with little if any time to practice between races. "He gets all his practice in between each moto," Eddie's father said.

The short practice schedule hasn't hurt Eddie's ability any as he and his family seriously ponder making a trip to the nationals next spring. He still has nearly two years left to race in the 16-and-under division and most racers in the three-state area give him little competition. Eddie's father admits he is not about to hop on a cycle and enter any races on his own. He is content watching Eddie do the racing, but another member of the family should keep the Forsythes attending motocross racing for some years to come. Ten-year-old Brad has also shown some proficiency on top of a cycle, and the Forsythes might have to build a trophy room on the side of their house.

Cambridge's Paul earns coaching honors

Eastern Ohio stars named

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Joe Paul, who returned to Cambridge to lead a football renaissance at the high school, was selected today as the Ohio Eastern District Class AAA Coach of the Year.

Cambridge won only two of 10 contests in 1974. Paul, in his first year back at the Guernsey County school, compiled a 9-1-0 campaign and was the choice of a district panel of newsmen.

Ernie Washington, a 6-foot-2, 205-pound senior who scored touchdowns in his last 14 games, was acclaimed the district Class AAA Back of the Year.

The big school lineman honors went to Mike Linn of Steubenville, a 6-2, 215-pound two-year letterman.

In Class AA, Ron Pobolish, leading Cadiz (9-0-1) to its first unbeaten season since the mid-1950s, earned the Eastern Coach of the Year title.

Jeff Kendzioriski, a three-year starter as Cadiz' fullback, was the AA Back of the Year for gaining 1,328 yards and punting for a 35-yard average as a line-backer. Mark Gress, a 6-2, 248-pound center from West Lafayette Ridgewood, was the top AA lineman.

In Class A, Ward Holdsworth of Newcomerstown (8-2-0) was the top coach. Tuscarawas Catholic junior Scott Oberholzer, who rushed for 1,124 yards, caught passes for 350 yards and scored 124 points, the No. 1 back and Newcomerstown guard John Brady the best lineman.

Buckeye cagers take on Butler

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A quicker and more unified Ohio State basketball team, at least in the eyes of its coach, launches the season Saturday at Butler.

"Our quickness is our strength. And hopefully the unity aspect will turn into a plus. We're a little more oriented toward a team concept," said Fred Taylor, the Buckeyes' coach.

"We're not very deep and we're hurting size-wise," added the dean of Big Ten coaches opening his 17th campaign at his alma mater.

Ohio State will be playing without one of its returning regulars, 6-foot-2 guard Mark Bayless, at Butler. The sophomore from Chillicothe has run afoul of grade problems.

Bayless, who averaged almost nine points as a freshman, did not practice this week with the Buckeyes. He spent his time studying for final examinations.

"We'll probably know next week if we're going to have Mark this season," said Taylor.

Jud Wood, a 6-3 sophomore from Columbus, takes over Bayless' spot and will team with another holdover starter, 6-foot junior Larry Bolden. He is the top scoring returnee with 16 points per game.

Craig Taylor, the holdover 6-10 senior center, has shed 22 pounds since practice opened. He's down to 238, still three pounds above his normal playing weight.

The Buckeyes' forwards are untested. Clance Hammond, a 6-6 junior, played sparingly last year. He will be joined by 6-5 freshman Fred Poole.

Ohio State finished with a 14-14 overall and 8-10 conference record last year. "And we gave five games away," said Taylor.

Butler, a member of the Indiana Collegiate Conference, posted a 10-16 mark last winter. The Bulldogs have three starters back, 6-7 forward Barry Collier, 6-3 guard John Dunn and 5-10 Wayne Burris.

Burris, 5-10, is the top scorer back. He averaged 13.2 points, one more point than Dunn, who also plays forward. Collier hit more than seven points a game and is the No. 1 rebounder for the Bulldogs.

Elsewhere, Ohio University gets the jump on the state's major schools. The Bobcats face Massachusetts tonight in the first round of the opening Hall of Fame Tournament at Springfield, Mass.

Kent State faces Saturday's biggest assignment. The Flashes play at Notre Dame. Xavier opens with a difficult road game, too, visiting Purdue, an expected Big Ten title threat.

Miami, Dayton and Cincinnati all are heavy favorites at home. Toledo and Bowling Green do not start their schedules until next week.

Miami's Redskins, picked to finish second in the Mid-American Conference behind Western Michigan, face Ohio Northern. Dayton awaits Ashland and Cincinnati's 10th-ranked Bearcats begin with Cleveland State.

Syracuse facing tourney clash

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Now that the Syracuse basketball doll is wound up, Coach Roy Danforth will see if it moves backward or forward.

"We'll be playing more people this year," says a cautious Danforth. "But forward Chris Sease — and the search for solid backcourt play — holds the key to success or mediocrity when tourney time has rolled around."

The Orangemen, uncertain but eager, are one of three ranked teams in action tonight as the 1975-76 college basketball season opens full-bloom.

Syracuse, ranked 20th in the country, will play Austin Peay in the first round of the IPTAY Invitational Tournament at Clemson, S. C. Harvard faces Clemson in the other game.

Arizona, ranked No. 11 in the preseason poll, hosts Oregon State and 17th-ranked Providence plays Stonehill.

"Normally there are a few breathers early," said Danforth, "but we've got two tourneys right off the bat (the other is the Steel Bowl in Pittsburgh on Dec. 5 and 6)."

The Orangemen are coming off one of their most glamorous seasons in history — a 23-9 record and the NCAA's eastern championship. Their fans want a replay of last year's cinderella season, but Danforth perhaps is more realistic.

"It's the youngest team we've ever had since I've been here," Danforth pointed out. "However, I feel we're a tournament team. From 15 to 17 wins would be respectable for this team."

Sease, center Earnie Seibert and guard Jimmy Williams have returned from last year's team which placed in the NCAA's four-team summit meeting in San Diego. However, forward Rudy Hackett and guard Jimmy Lee will be missed. Hackett averaged more than 22 points and nearly 13 rebounds a game and Lee averaged 17 points and quarterbacked a finely-tuned offense.

Aggies, fifth ranked Texas clash

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

While most of the country dines on leftover turkey, Texas A&M will be trying to carve up some tough old beef. The second-ranked Aggies clashed with fifth-ranked Texas today in the first half of a nationally televised college football doubleheader. Tonight, UCLA, ranked No. 14, meets Southern Cal in a battle that will determine who meets Ohio State in the Rose Bowl Jan. 1.

The Texas-Texas A&M outcome affects several bowls. The Texas Longhorns, 9-1, are headed for the Cotton Bowl if they win and to the Bluebonnet Bowl if they lose.

For the Aggies, a victory would send them into next week's game against Arkansas with the Cotton Bowl spot on the line. A loss to Arkansas would put Texas A&M into the Liberty Bowl and send Arkansas to the Cotton.

Boasting the nation's No. 1 defense, the Aggies will be taking on the nation's highest scoring offense when they run up against the Longhorns. Texas A&M, 9-0, is seeking its first football victory over Texas since 1967.

Following the Lone Star State battle, crosstown rivals Southern Cal and UCLA go before the ABC television cameras. Southern Cal is already going to the Liberty Bowl, but UCLA must win if it wants a postseason spot.

A victory would give the Uclans a share of the Pacific-8 conference championship and a berth in the Rose Bowl against Ohio State of the Big Ten Conference.

The Bruins are led by quarterback John Sciarra, who has rushed for 721 yards and 14 touchdowns and passed for 1,015 yards this season while directing the Bruins' Veer T offense.

If UCLA loses, then upstart California will get the shot at top-ranked Ohio State.

Today's gridiron doubleheader will be the middle section of ABC's five-game holiday feast.

Thursday night, 15th-ranked Georgia rolled to a 42-0 lead before running in the reserves in the final period and pulling out a 42-26 victory over Georgia Tech. Georgia is headed for the Cotton Bowl.

Saturday, ABC will telecast the traditional Army-Navy rivalry and another intra-state battle between fourth-ranked Alabama and Auburn.

The Army-Navy matchup is strictly a matter of pride. Navy, 6-4, is a three-touchdown favorite over Army, 2-8. But the Cadets are smarting after being shut out by Navy the past two years and an upset would more than make up for their losing record.

Alabama, 9-1, already has a Sugar Bowl berth against Penn State. But Saturday night's game marks Auburn Coach Shug Jordan's farewell. In his 25th season at the Tigers' helm, Jordan's Auburn team has posted a disappointing 3-5-2 record. A victory over 'Bama would be a lovely retirement present.

In another big game Saturday, eighth-ranked Arizona State, 10-0, goes against No. 12 Arizona, 9-1. The winner earns the Western Athletic Conference crown and the host berth in the Fiesta Bowl against Nebraska.

Buffalo Bills top Cardinals, 32-14

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bruising Jim Braxton did most things right and the St. Louis Cardinals most things wrong. Not really so surprising, then, that the two elements added up to a 32-14 Buffalo Bills upset Thursday in the National Football League.

"This puts us back in the running," beamed Buffalo Coach Lou Saban after his Bills, 7-4, pulled within half a game of the front-running Miami Dolphins in the American Conference East. "It gives us impetus," Saban said. "It was our third game in 11 days. It's sure nice to get out 2-1."

Buffalo's triumph, dropping St. Louis to 8-3, came on the rampaging runs of Braxton, who scored three touchdowns and amassed a pro career rushing high of 160 yards.

But lending a more than a substantial assist to the Bills' effort was a succession of seven St. Louis turnovers, five in the closing half.

Buffalo converted the Cards' second error, a fumble by Steve Jones, into O.J. Simpson's three-yard touchdown run for a 13-7 halftime edge.

Then, with a ball-hawking secondary picking off four Jim Hart passes, the Bills turned the next four St. Louis mistakes into 19 points and a commanding 32-7 lead with 11:28 remaining.

John Leyboldt booted field goals of 30 and 33 yards. Both resulted from two other turnovers — the first Dwight Harrison's two interceptions and Don Croft's fumble recovery.

Later, as St. Louis predictably went to the air, rapidfire piracies by Harrison and Tony Greene, both deep in Cards territory, helped seal the outcome.

Braxton blasted five yards to score after Harrison's second theft, boosting Buffalo's lead to 26-7 on the fourth play of the final quarter.

Bidding Quiz

You are South and the bidding has gone:

North East South West
1♦ 1♥ Pass Pass
Dble Pass ?

What would you bid now with each of the following four hands:

- 1. ♠Q863 ♥652 ♦74 ♣9872
- 2. ♠Q7543 ♥842 ♦10 ♣KJ96
- 3. ♠J52 ♥KJ985 ♦96 ♣Q53
- 4. ♠K9 ♥QJ73 ♦52 ♣J9864

1. One spade. Partner's double in this sequence is not for penalties; it is clearly for takeout. North is asking you to bid, and it is your duty to do so. Situations where partner would have seven defensive tricks are much too rare for such a double to be treated as a penalty double. The double is therefore logically for takeout. If North thought he could defeat one heart, he would simply pass.

He would also pass with a minimum opening bid, having spoken his piece when he said one diamond. It follows that North must have more than a minimum bid. With a one-suited hand worth bidding again, he would rebid his diamonds; with a two-suited hand he would bid his second suit. His hand is apt to look something like this: ♠AJ72 ♥9 ♦AQJ6 ♣KJ64

2. Two spades. This isn't much of a hand either, but, considering partner's bidding, game is a strong possibility. One spade would not reflect the promise of the hand. Partner might think you had a simply dreadful hand, which you haven't. You can't make the same response here as you did with the previous hand, since North is not expected to be a mind reader. You must bid two spades to show your values. Two spades is not forcing, because your previous pass indicated a hand not strong enough to justify bidding over one heart.

3. Pass. Partner's double is for takeout, but it is your privilege to convert it into a business double by passing. One heart doubled, played by East, is almost surely your side's best spot.

4. One notrump. The choice lies between one notrump and two clubs. Two clubs would not identify your scattered high-card strength and could be based on a very weak hand. One notrump is much more encouraging and is never bid with a hopeless hand. Since game is by no means out of the question, you make the bid that offers you the best chance of getting there.

Artists seek new image

CLEVELAND (AP) — The nation's artists, writers and other humanists are hoping to clean up the ages' old image of the "dirty old man," in keeping with the increasing numbers of the elderly.

The start came about mid-November with a symposium at Case Western Reserve University directed by history professor David Van Tassel.

Van Tassel says social sciences have been concerned with problems of aging for years but that the arts and humanities hadn't dealt with the subject.

The symposium of 40 scholars, artists and writers from across the nation produced a variety of reports designed to focus attention on the image of old age as a time of senility, decline, weakness and obsolescence—and sometimes to dispute that image.

At least one argued that old age is "a stimulus to achievement."

Van Tassel says that research in philosophy, art and literature could help redefine aging and remove some of its long-standing negative imagery in favor of "new insights."

A second meeting was planned for New York in what will be a 2½-year project. The results of the Cleveland meeting will be published in book form in 1976.

Hot dog vendor arrested again

CINCINNATI (AP)—Hot dog vendor Howard Zimmerman was fined $15 and court costs following his third arrest for violating city vending ordinances on Cincinnati's downtown Fountain Square Plaza.

The city's ordinance prohibiting sales for profit on the square was declared unconstitutional last August following Zimmerman's first arrest. He was convicted on another charge of using a pushcart larger than permitted under city law.

Zimmerman was arrested Oct. 4 after the city banned all vendors on the square during the World Series. He pleaded no contest.

Runoff election for post slated

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — The presidency of United Auto Workers Local 425 here again will be decided by a runoff election.

Last May, incumbent Mike Pohorence edged challenger Pete Pavlich, but failed to get the 51 per cent margin required by the union bylaws for election. Pohorence again squeaked past Pavlich in the runoff.

Two days of voting this week gave Pavlich a 50-vote victory over Pohorence out of some 5,000 votes cast—again short of the 51 per cent requirement.

The local will hold a runoff Dec. 16-17.

Handling the Angina Patient

My husband gets an attack of angina whenever he gets aggravated or does the slightest work around the house. He is terrified and sits in the chair all day.

Mrs. B.V., N.H.

Before any contribution can be made to such a person one must understand what angina is, what causes it and how it can be reduced in severity and frequency.

Angina is a painful, oppressive sensation that occurs around the heart and chest in people whose blood supply to the heart muscle is inadequate. The coronary arteries bring blood and oxygen to the heart muscle to keep it functioning. When these coronary arteries are narrowed by arteriosclerosis, the blood flow is reduced. Consequently, any additional exertion demands that the heart beat more rapidly.

This added effort causes the pain of "angina pectoris."

It is true that emotional stress can be responsible for anginal pain. The burden of heated discussions and anger may precipitate an attack.

Eating large meals draws vital blood away from the heart muscle and brings it to the stomach instead. Walking rapidly, especially against the wind, diverts blood from the heart muscle to the lungs. This, too, may induce the painful constriction of angina.

Unusual fatigue, tobacco, alcoholic excesses and unaccustomed physical exertion can also produce these painful spasms.

As you undoubtedly know, there are a number of excellent drugs which can relieve the "coronary blood vessel spasms." Nitroglycerin tablets placed under the tongue are very effective.

Incidentally, it should be mentioned that these tablets may deteriorate with time, heat and humidity. Therefore, they may not be as effective as when purchased.

For sufferers of chronic, incapacitating attacks of angina, special "by-pass" surgery is often recommended. Before such a decision is made there must be intensive cardiovascular studies.

The oppressive pain of angina very often makes chronic invalids out of the sufferers. Your husband must be encouraged, by you and the family, and by his doctor, to learn to live within the limits of his capacity as a normal, functioning human being.

THE BETTER HALF

By Barnes

"There's no place like NOME." SECRETARY OF STATE Seward ~1867.

Alaska BOUGHT from Russia for $7 MILLION.

A lot of people thought it was a mistake. "Seward's folly," they called it. Just a lot of ice and igloos.

But Alaska has yielded furs, fish, forest products and minerals worth many times the purchase price.

And that purchase was made possible when Americans bought up a government issue of six-percent five-twenty bonds in 1865.

Today, Americans still help their country grow by buying United States Savings Bonds at banks or through the Payroll Savings Plan at work.

Seward knew what he was doing then.

Be in the know, now. Buy United States Savings Bonds.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4½% the first year). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America. 200 years at the same location.

Security council studies Mideast force extension

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council meets today in a closed-door session to discuss renewal of the mandate for the U.N. peacekeeping force on the Golan Heights. Semi-official Damascus sources say Syrian President Hafez Assad has agreed to an extension. U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, returning from a six-day tour of the Middle East, met in London Thursday with Jordan's King Hussein. After the meeting Waldheim told reporters he was hopeful the Security Council would renew the mandate before it expires Sunday.

"The decision is now with them," Waldheim said.

He said he had a "frank and constructive discussion" with Assad, but refused to say whether the Syrian president had made a commitment to renewing the mandate.

The Damascus sources said Assad agreed Wednesday to a six-month extension in return for Waldheim's personal promise to work for early resumption of Geneva peace talks among Israel, Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

Israel has agreed to a six-month extension without conditions, but has refused any concessions to Syria.

Diplomatic sources here said Syria had agreed in principle to the extension but wanted the 15-nation Security Council to invite a representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization to address the body on political rights of Palestinians.

Analysts in Jerusalem have accused Syria of brinkmanship to squeeze political concessions out of Israel. The 1,300 U.N. troops known as the U.N. Disengagement Observation Force (UNDOF) maintained separation of Israeli and Syrian forces on the heights under an agreement worked out 17 months ago by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to end the Golan Heights war.

Israeli experts don't think the peacekeepers would have to move out immediately if the mandate were not renewed, but without it the agreement would lose much of its effect and observers feel it could then fall apart and lead to a resumption of fighting.

The U.N. undersecretary general for administration and management, George F. Davidson, said if the mandate has not been extended by Sunday midnight, Waldheim would not have legal authority "even to supply breakfast rations on the Golan Heights."

In other Mideast developments:

—Israeli soldiers moved into Lebanon before dawn Thursday to search for Arab guerrillas near the village of Kfar Kela and came under light arms fire, according to the Tel Aviv command. Lebanese police said the commander of a local militia was killed. The Israelis said they took a prisoner back into Israel for questioning.

—Scattered clashes between Moslems and Christians in Beirut left 10 dead as the street warfare tapered.

—Egypt suspended talks on its $6 billion debt to Moscow until it responds to an Egyptian proposal to pay it back over a 10-year period, according to Trade Minister Zakariya Tewfik.
